What: For 44 years, OC Human Relations has been honoring individuals, law enforcement, schools and community organizations for their contributions to human relations in Orange County. This year, OC Human Relations will also honor a business or corporation for embracing the principles of diversity and inclusion in the workplace.

Nominations are being accepted for outstanding businesses or corporations that have gone above and beyond ordinary practices to embrace the principles of diversity and inclusion in the workplace. The Distinguished Business Award will be presented at the OC Human Relations AWARDS 44 event on May 7, 2015 at the City National Grove of Anaheim.

Distinguished Business Award nomination guidelines include:

- CEO commitment to diversity and inclusion;
- Human resource practices that promote diversity in the workplace;
- Corporate/organizational communication initiatives that promote inclusion in the workplace;
- Supplier/contractor diversity;
- Community involvement with the goal of making Orange County a better place for all to work and live;
- A business or corporation with employees who work in Orange County, CA.

Who: Nominations are invited from the business community and from area residents who know of a business that they feel is worthy of this honor. Businesses also are welcome to nominate themselves for this award.

Why: Businesses with exemplary diversity and inclusion practices help lead the way to greater mutual understanding among all residents of Orange County and make Orange County a better place for all people to live, work and do business.

When: The business award nomination deadline is 4:00 p.m., Friday, February 27, 2015.

Proceeds from this event benefit OC Human Relations, a 501(c)(3) charitable organization, Tax ID #33-0438086. Your contribution is tax deductible to the extent permitted by law.
